

Bets

This game is fun with 5 or more people

You'll need a deck of cards, a hat on your head (or if your willing to lick the card and stick it to your forehead then go ahead), and people who can understand the game and want to have fun and get drunk

Deal the cards out to everyone in the circle face down. knowone can look at their cards. everyone then takes their 1st card and places it their hat numbers out. where everyone else can see it but not you. then starting with one person (doesnt matter) look at everyones card. you r trying to make people think they have a low card and that yours can beat theirs (bluffing) after looking at everyones card then say i bet X number of drinks. the most drink you can go is 14 and half a beer. after you make you bet then the person to the right of you then looks around as well and can either say they call your number of drink or they can raise the drinks. if one raises then it is now that number of drinks and when in get back to you you have to either call or fold the the last highest drink bet. however if you fold then you have to drink your last bet. after a number of drinks is called by everone at the table then everyone lays down their card. the player with the lowest card has to drink the number of drink that was bet . and thats the game of bets

Everyone is usually confused at first but after u get the hang of it its a fun game and can get u on the good drunk/buzzed level. so have fun

Submitted by Romney Luna